Welcome! I second Meyer, you don't need to post everyday if you don't feel like it, but I think you can greatly benefit from dropping by everyday. You can always learn something new and even if not, coming here keeps you focused.

If you haven't taken a look at it yet, there's a great thread from Menachem about creating your plan. I highly encourage you to read it and make an elaborate plan.

Hope everyone is doing well,

Today is day 3/90 B"H!!!! Today was fine until I was home alone and had an urge, but I got up instead and ran to do other things. I have been working on being mindful I'm the present moment when I have an urge. 90 days feels so long from now so I need all your chizuk!!!!

Thank You!!!

90 days is a great goal and incentive, but the real goal is to rewire your thinking. There is no "need" for this garbage. There is life without sexual pleasure. One day at a time just tell yourself, "I do not need this today", and plan your day to be busy productive and positive. Squeeze in some physical activity, and start focusing on all the nice things that you do. Keep posting and stay connected, so when there is a tough day, you can reach out for reminders that you can get past this b'ezras Hashem, as so many others already have done.

In the beginning there is normal withdrawal. Don't panic from it. Exercise is very healthy at neutralizing it.

At the same time, "I know it's going to start to get harder in the next few days", should be rephrased, "I know over the next few days I will imagine that I NEED this garbage more and more, but it's not a real need." The more you internalize that thought, b'ezras Hashem you will have the wherewithal to pull through.

Build your want and desire to overcome it. Found it really helpful. Really sit down and daher whats at stake if you dont overcome it(if you wanna a list Im sure we can arrange for one). Then you realize how serious issue it is and you can arrange the proper steps and plans to overcome it. Hatzlacha!

Beautiful! What a milestone! It gets easier as you go but don't start getting lazy, watch those eyes and watch out for triggers, adjust your game plan as needed and keep on fighting!

Hi all,

unfortunately lastlast night I had a minor fall, my urge was either too strong or I just wasn't thinking. Both come together I think. I have webchaver, yet it dosen't block certain things even thought the point of the app is supposed to capture the screen, but even nothing totally inappropriate which I would still have my eyes look away from it doesn't necessarily capture it if you are not on it for a period of time. Any suggestions of what I should do? Should I start back to day one or continue? I will have this at times, I'll fall and the. Be clean for a week or two and then fall again. Any Chizuk or Tips. I know this is a working process, I just need a better plan to fix it.

Thank You for all the encouragement you have given me to get to this point, and now I'm going to try again and try to make a new plan....
