

New beginnings

Posted by Choosechayim - 25 Apr 2021 17:23

So, I have posted before about mybpartocular challenges. I am married, but in a sexless marriage, battling the loneliness and sadness that comes with it. I have tried many times for 90 days, and always beat myself up afterwards. So. Here is what I am trying. I am trying 90 days with posting at least 3-4 times a week. I may decide that what I am trying to do is simply that. If I can post consistently for 90 days, then even if I fall, I have committed to being conscious of this work during that time. All chizuk is welcome.

Can you afford to masturbate constantly to the images that you see on your internet?

Is insurance "affordable"?

This is not a marketing strategy, but a fact that having unfiltered internet in the home of someone who compulsively views pornography is like an alcoholic sleeping in a bar the whole night. We don't rely on miracles. Could you give the passwords of the devices that have internet away to your wife? That doesn't cost any money and you wouldn't have access anymore

I do not have a filter. I have not found one that is affordable. I would like to get one for my son as well.

Still committed.

There are people who help guys pay for filters if they see the individual is sincere. PM me if you are interested.
