

Connecting the days

Posted by connected - 05 May 2022 17:34

I figured I'd start a new thread under this category to help me keep track of my progress.

I had a tough day with my wife yesterday. (Actually, if I'm being honest, she had a tough day, and her mood spilled over, dragging me down.) Finally, after putting the kids to bed and having something to eat, I needed to go to the grocery. I got into the car, still upset, and as I was waiting at a red light, this attractive woman walked by right in front of me, and my eyes helpfully escorted her across the street.

Suddenly, the following hit me. And I said it out loud (all windows were closed...).

"What are you doing? You're upset at your wife, so you're ogling other women? Do you think you're somehow getting even with her? All you're doing is destroying yourself."

This helped me snap away my destructive gaze.

This is not the first time I behaved this way while being upset with my wife. But it's the first time I had this thought that helped me out of it. I didn't put that thought there.

Thank You, Hashem, for that thought.

=====
=====

Re: Connecting the days

Posted by foolie - 10 Oct 2023 15:38

connected wrote on 10 Oct 2023 14:54:

Okay, I'll say it: ODAAT is such a drag.

It's boring.

It's tedious.

It's monotonous.

(Does anyone have a thesaurus?)

[spoiler][spoiler]

Someone told me once upon a time thrill seekers live empty lives because they just run from one high to the next and as such are never happy because they have no boundaries. People who live ODAAT even though it can be monotonous, boring, tedious, a drag even dare I say repetitive, can find happiness because they are living within a framework that has boundaries and they understand that whatever they need can be found within those boundaries

=====
=====

Re: Connecting the days
Posted by redfaced - 10 Oct 2023 15:52

connected wrote on 10 Oct 2023 14:54:

(Does anyone have a thesaurus?)

I thought Thesaurus went extinct along with all the other 'Saurus'

=====
=====

Re: Connecting the days
Posted by connected - 10 Oct 2023 16:04

foolie wrote on 10 Oct 2023 15:38:

Someone told me once upon a time thrill seekers live empty lives because they just run from one high to the next and as such are never happy because they have no boundaries.

From Rabbi Joey Rosenfeld:

Addicts do not crave drugs because they enjoy the high, they are always already in a state of perpetual craving. The high simply interrupts the ceaseless desire for a moment. When the drug wears off, the craving returns.

=====
=====

Re: Connecting the days
Posted by connected - 10 Oct 2023 16:07

connected wrote on 10 Oct 2023 14:54:

Okay, I'll say it: ODAAT is such a drag.

It's boring.

It's tedious.

It's monotonous.

(Does anyone have a thesaurus?)

I think all of the above is true only as long as I'm clinging to my ego and its desire to be recognized.

Speaking of Reb Joey and his thoughts on addiction, here's one that jives with this complaint:

Recovery is not about joy or success, it is about acceptance. Living, not in spite of ones lack, but in and through the lack itself.

=====

====

Re: Connecting the days
Posted by frank.lee - 10 Oct 2023 21:08

Sounds like something in The easy Way to stop smoking. The pleasure of the cigarette is just taking a break from the pain of the lack between smoking.

He gives a mashal. Someone who is size 40 shoes, wear size 36 and walk around for 5 hours. Take off the shoes for 10 minutes. Awesome pleasure?? Sort of, but really all you're doing is putting yourself in pain the rest of the day. The pleasure is what a regular, nonsmoker can feel all day..

=====
====

Re: Connecting the days
Posted by connected - 11 Oct 2023 15:24

frank.lee wrote on 10 Oct 2023 21:08:

Sounds like something in The easy Way to stop smoking. The pleasure of the cigarette is just taking a break from the pain of the lack between smoking.

He gives a mashal. Someone who is size 40 shoes, wear size 36 and walk around for 5 hours. Take off the shoes for 10 minutes. Awesome pleasure?? Sort of, but really all you're doing is putting yourself in pain the rest of the day. The pleasure is what a regular, nonsmoker can feel all day..

I've actually been on this ride for a while. Reading the easy peasy method played a role in helping me get on the coveted Wall Of Honor for a short while.

As long as I had my head stuck up my rear in, in terms of what might be causing me to want to watch porn, it worked. But at some point, I started feeling that it was an oversimplification - at least in my case. It might be true for others and be more of a longer-term fix for them. Yachol Lihiyot.

Reb Joey just points out that, for the addict, a "normal state" can be unbearable, so they need what others would call a "high" to be okay. That's all.

Allan Carr uses this point to say, just stop going for the high and get used to the normal state. I don't think he addresses deeper underlying reasons why a person might seek out the high. Is it to escape from pain? Anxiety? Some other concoction of inner ailments? In many cases, as long as the inner environment isn't taken care of, there's no getting used to "normal".

=====
=====

Re: Connecting the days
Posted by connected - 11 Oct 2023 15:39

God, thank you for giving me a friend who helped me yesterday get past an urge. Please help me stay sober today.

Protect me from my know-it-all ego; even as I write these lines, it's whispering to me, "Wow, that looks real good. Like a genuine, humble guy." (that too).

Yesterday I fell asleep to the sweet sound of Dov saying, "Elohai Netzor Leshoin Meirah". He went on for another hour, but I was out. I hope he's not offended.

=====
=====

Re: Connecting the days
Posted by chaimoigen - 11 Oct 2023 21:45

As one who has the occasional hard moment of realization that I'm an insufferable know-it-all who people can't stand sometimes for it (including my wife), I appreciate that you are struggling with and working on it. Now I will return to ignoring the uncomfortable fact and feel good that I'm posted something somewhat thoughtful and contemplative.

On the other topic, you've articulated it so clearly!

Merely Focusing on the mechanics of trigger, cause, desire, thought, mindfulness and avoidance does not address the existential suffering that is daily living for some people. For those individuals, their drug of choice is a solution more than it is a problem.

I'm not sure how the Program addresses this problem,(though I understand that it can for many).

Sometimes, though, there can be internal shifts, new glimmerings of feeling that can change the way the stuff inside swirls.

For me, over years, it was changing certain relationships and discovering new kinds of satisfaction. With Hashem's help, my internal environment eased. Then the other stuff helped, to deal with residual patterns.

Don't know if this helps at all, but maybe I can lend you a little hopefulness. Either way, I'm feeling what you're saying, my friend.

=====
=====

Re: Connecting the days

Posted by connected - 13 Oct 2023 17:06

Here's a bug that started dancing in me a while back and more recently with more zest:

Porn gives me instant benefits and future pain. (I rarely feel bad/ashamed when I'm done.)

Sobriety gives me instant pain (sometimes) and future benefits.

If I'm trying to live in the present moment, wouldn't it make more sense to enjoy porn today and not worry about the future consequences?

God, protect me from my mind.

Help me live one day at a time while acknowledging the future.

Help me feel the joy of sobriety while I'm attaining it.

Umein.

(I wrote the last word with that pronunciation for a plot twist.)

=====
=====

Re: Connecting the days
Posted by foolie - 13 Oct 2023 17:20

Porn equals instant gratification

instant gratification equals momentary pleasure

momentary pleasure equals looking for the next momentary pleasure

running from momentary pleasure to momentary pleasure equals emptiness so by the associative properties of logic Porn equals emptiness therefore it makes no sense to while living in the moment do something that is empty and devoid of purpose just to do something

=====
=====

Re: Connecting the days
Posted by Gevura Shebyesod - 13 Oct 2023 21:39

connected wrote on 13 Oct 2023 17:06:

Here's a bug that started dancing in me a while back and more recently with more zest:

Porn gives me instant benefits and future pain. (I rarely feel bad/ashamed when I'm done.)

Sobriety gives me instant pain (sometimes) and future benefits.

If I'm trying to live in the present moment, wouldn't it make more sense to enjoy porn today and not worry about the future consequences?

God, protect me from my mind.

Help me live one day at a time while acknowledging the future.

Help me feel the joy of sobriety while I'm attaining it.

Umein.

(I wrote the last word with that pronunciation for a plot twist.)

Reminds me of something I posted way back, which happens to be on this week's Parsha.

<https://guardyoureyes.com/forum/19-Introduce-Yourself/111583-hello-my-friends?limit=15&start=420#146084>

???? ?????????? ?????, ????????? ?????????????? ?????...

(based on Sforno but I'm not sure it's what he meant)

Hashem is talking to the snake AKA the Yetzer HoRa. He tells him, if "he", i.e the person, wins, he will cause pain in the "head", in the beginning, but the end will be sweet. But if you, the YH, win, the beginning may be pleasure but the "heel", the end, will be pain.

=====
=====

Re: Connecting the days
Posted by chaimoigen - 15 Oct 2023 02:39

I try to focus, sometimes, on the distinction between living in the moment, and living for the moment.

=====
=====

Re: Connecting the days
Posted by connected - 16 Oct 2023 16:06

foolie wrote on 13 Oct 2023 17:20:

Porn equals instant gratification

instant gratification equals momentary pleasure

momentary pleasure equals looking for the next momentary pleasure

running from momentary pleasure to momentary pleasure equals emptiness so by the associative properties of logic Porn equals emptiness therefore it makes no sense to while living in the moment do something that is empty and devoid of purpose just to do something

You missed a perfectly good opportunity to write "ergo."

Oh vell.

=====
=====

Re: Connecting the days

Posted by connected - 16 Oct 2023 16:08

chaimoigen wrote on 15 Oct 2023 02:39:

I try to focus, sometimes, on the distinction between living in the moment, and living for the moment.

This is gold, Chaim(Jerry, GOLD!).

Some good food for thought. Thanks.

=====
=====