I cant say im close to 90 days yet, but with hashems help as of this morning i am 7 days clean of P and M! Its such a good feeling! Cant say it was easy but i did it. I thank everyone on this program for helping me reach this small yet big milestone. This community's amazing and its a gift to be part of it.

On the way to 90!!!

Hey, welcome aboard!

First off, 7 days is amazing, it's not a start, it's a great start!

For me personally, I've gained more from focusing on day 8 than day 90 but a lot of folks do find it very motivating.

I've also found that trying to stay clean from Porn & Masturbation and making it the main focus without trying to be clean from lust hasn't worked long term and even while it "worked" it was nothing but white knuckling.

Just sharing my experiences. Hatzlocha on the journey!

In a nutshell, trying to stay away from porn and masturbation without focusing on lust will be very very difficult. For example, if you are going look at girls and allow yourself to fantasize about them, it's going to be much harder to avoid porn and masturbation. Even if you do manage to avoid it by sheer willpower and clenched fists (white knuckling), is it sustainable for the long term?

?It's not just lust. focusing all day on the "battle" and the fact that you have taivos and your yetzer Hora can also have detrimental effects leading to more acting out.

LUST= Living Under Satan's Temptations. As long as your lusting it's going to be hard to stay clean on the other hand, finding ways to maintain reminders throughout the day to connect to hashem, and to strengthen our commitment to serve hashem in every way, will help lessen the amount of time we are actually battling.

Was thinking it over and I think it depends what your focusing on.

If your focus is on Hashem, strengthening your commitment, trying to connect to Hashem, giving the struggle over to Hashem and realizing that he could help, that's a good thing.

However, if your focus is on the Yetzer Hora-how strong he is and how difficult this nisayon is, how severe the aveira is...That can bring you down. I'm not saying that it doesn't work for some folks but it definitely can have an adverse effect.
