

Unknown emissions when in bathroom (#2)

Posted by iLoveHashem247 - 11 Nov 2022 15:19

Has anyone else experienced a thick semen-like emission when going to the bathroom (#2) after not having had ejaculated for a while or after having a lower amount of ejaculation after a while of higher frequency Ejaculation?

It has happened to me when I am in the bathroom during or immediately after I feel like there's something coming out and I try to clinch so it doesn't come out but if something does come out it is a thick yellowish semen like substance

Tried figuring out what it was in the past but never really got any results. Doesn't happen all the time. It often happens when I am in an abnormal state such as if I l'm groggy after waking up very late or if I am feeling tired and thirsty. It is not something that comes from self stimulation, rather seems to have to deal with pressures involved in going to the bathroom. It has happened that if I hold in too long that it comes out during the bathroom trip.

I've also experienced it as a drip after going to the bathroom as well what is this stuff??

Not sure exactly but I've had a similar experience recently. I wasn't sure if it was pee or semen or a mixture of both.

This has been discussed elsewhere on the forum. Don't remember where..... It's generally not an issue. I had this at one point. I recommend being in contact with @yoina mutzhoo as he is very well versed in the medical field and can shed more light on this.

If you are obese, having diabetes, eating hot spicy food, and driving a truck while constipated you have then good chance to suffer from those.
