

Chooseurnames 90 day trip

Posted by Chooseurname - 11 Oct 2023 20:09

Hello,

I was not going to try for 90 days now. Over yamim noraim I was mekabel just an hour a day to be careful - a machsom l'aynayim. I thought that was where I was holding and it was something I could build real growth on. However, when I heard over yom tov what happened in E"Y I decided I could do more klal yisroel. So here I go for 90 days whatever it takes.

I'm going to try hard to check in daily as I think it'll be really helpful.

It's a good time to start because with all the yom tov I kinda shook loose of some unhelpful habits. On the other hand, I'm glued to my computer following the news so not so great. I wish I could backdate this streak to before Rosh Hashana but alas it was interrupted...

=====

Re: Chooseurnames 90 day trip

Posted by BenHashemBH - 05 Jan 2025 02:32

jolylemur95 wrote on 05 Jan 2025 01:13:

chaimoigen wrote on 04 Jan 2025 23:28:

Though He doesn't need anything,

He mysteriously desires,

And the Yiddin that he's awaiting,

Include those who can't see why,

For there's a spark beneath the maelstrom,

That's yet burning from on high,

and the knowledge of His wanting,

....could perhaps inspire.

??? ?? ?????? ????

?? ??? ????? ?? ?????,

Here's wishing you a Gut Voch,

???

One of the piyutim we say on Yom Kippur is full of that. How he has endless malachim and others who sing shira to him but he DESIRES us who have struggles.

Than being said, Shem is pointing out hashem does not need us. He wants to be meitiv with us. It is for our benefit to do the right thing.

Yes, it is Asher Ometz in the Shacharis chazara (page 398 in the classic Artscroll with English). Hashgacha one of my Rebbeim pointed me to it last week.

Kol Tov.

=====

Re: Chooseurnames 90 day trip

Posted by chosemyshem - 05 Jan 2025 02:37

They could've said Hashem wants every Yid. I'd have no problem with that. Heck, they could've said Hashem wants every goy too and I wouldn't have a problem with that. Why'd they go with needs??

Hashem wanting me is certainly inspirational.

Unrelated edit: Was just going to kill some time online and I realized I blocked all my fave time-wasting entertainment sites (but-for GYE).

I think that's the best use case for a filter actually.

=====

Re: Chooseurnames 90 day trip
Posted by Muttel - 05 Jan 2025 15:55

BenHashemBH wrote on 05 Jan 2025 02:32:

jollylemur95 wrote on 05 Jan 2025 01:13:

chaimoigen wrote on 04 Jan 2025 23:28:

*Though He doesn't need anything,
He mysteriously desires,
And the Yiddin that he's awaiting,
Include those who can't see why,
For there's a spark beneath the maelstrom,
That's yet burning from on high,
and the knowledge of His wanting,
....could perhaps inspire.*

??? ?? ?????? ?????

?? ??? ????? ?? ??????,

Here's wishing you a Gut Voch,

????

One of the piyutim we say on Yom Kippur is full of that. How he has endless malachim and others who sing shira to him but he DESIRES us who have struggles.

Than being said, Shem is pointing out hashem does not need us. He wants to be meitiv with us. It is for our benefit to do the right thing.

Yes, it is Asher Ometz in the Shacharis chazara (page 398 in the classic Artscroll with English). Hashgacha one of my Rebbeim pointed me to it last week.

Kol Tov.

Just for the record, it's in Mussaf too ;-)

A baal mussaf that couldnt resist,

Muttel

=====

Re: Chooseurnames 90 day trip
Posted by chosemyshem - 08 Jan 2025 16:33

Checking in I guess.

Unproductive week. I've been in snow day mode. B"h been clean so far.

Noticing that I've been very grumpy recently, especially towards my wife. Now, she has been doing something recently that annoys me, but I don't think that's a great excuse.

(Normally I dislike speaking negatively about my wife, even on here. But this is too relevant to not mention. Humorously enough, what she's been doing that annoys me is staying up late watching Youtube. It. Drives. Me. Crazy. I think it's some funny combination of jealousy and "kol haposel b'mumo posul".)

Been trying to think why I've been getting so annoyed. Definitely a lot of it has to do with not feeling good about myself with the recent relapse. That results in picking on others to vent. I think there's also an element of a fantastic idea I heard from Rabbi Tatz once that people instinctively try to make the outer world align with their inner world. So inner turmoil results in trying to pick fights for outer turmoil.

I think a part of it also has to do with being on edge from urges. Doesn't help that I've run out of one of my favorite self-soothing mechanisms (kosher dip) and my wife is resisting me restocking.

I also strongly suspect that I'm trying to push her away to give me space/freedom/justification to act out.

Armchair Freudian self-diagnoses aside. The point is that if I keep on feeling angry/resentful towards her I'll inevitably act out. There's no question at all about that. I've been trying to let go of the resentment and asking Hashem for help. The SA formulation of analyzing the root middah at issue and davening for Hashem to help take away the resentment so there's space to connect to Him is pretty powerful.

The problem is it takes a lot of energy to do that. Much easier to sit quietly and stew. And I'm having trouble really letting go - meaning I can let it go/surrender the resentment but still find myself getting upset about the same things when they happen again.

Work in progress.

Unrelated point. I've been thinking about green circle activities and my lack thereof. It's a complicated problem. Mostly, I just want to veg in my free time (which is pretty limited). Vegging is inherently a yellow circle activity. I feel like if you'd draw a Venn diagram of things I enjoy, things I would practically do during downtime, and things that are constructive leisure activities there'd be no overlap.

On top of that, my biggest area of struggle is at work. I can't exactly get busy golfing in my office (or whatever it is y'all fineshmekkers with healthy recreational activities do).

Perhaps the green circle is not a relevant tool for this aspect of the struggle. Perhaps also I'm being too nitpicky about what is a healthy activity or what activities I should invest my time in.

At the end of the day, pretty much anything would be a better use of time than porn or filter poking.

=====

Re: Chooseurnames 90 day trip

Posted by dreamyunicorn28 - 08 Jan 2025 17:26

chosemyshe wrote on 03 Jan 2025 19:24:

Well life sucks. But at least it's relatively short.

Been sheepish about posting this, but it's been a baaaaaaad week.

No motivation to make it stop being bad.

Thank you Hashem for shabbos, and for not being in a place where I have a nisayon to watch on shabbos.

Totally and completely unrelated. I've been seeing bumper stickers (from Oorah?) that say "Hashem Needs Every Yid". This is actual literal kefir. Hashem does not need every Yid.

Hashem does not need anything. Just needed to get that off my chest.

Ha ha, I saw it this morning and thought the same!!! If only they replace the word "needs" for "wants" - Hashem wants every Yid.

=====

=====

Re: Chooseurnames 90 day trip

Posted by chaimoigen - 08 Jan 2025 17:28

Don't mean to nitpick, but could you please consider using the words "recent falls" instead of "recent relapse"?

I'm not suggesting that you ignore the fact that you fell into behaviours and negative patterns that have you have been struggling with in the past, and that you still continue to struggle with. Nothing exists in a vacuum. Yet, the existence of every moment is independent. And every struggle and Nisayon is particular and unique. Your recent and current Nisyonos are specific to the moment. You're not the same guy you were a few months ago. Take lessons from the past and apply them to today's day-tight compartment.

On the other notes: working on releasing resentment is hugely important. Hazlacha for the cogent way you are articulating it, and Hazlacha on following through.

One more thought:

At the risk of going out on a limb I would float the idea that there are people who have a hard time with constructive leisure activities because they feel that "leisure" and "constructive" are contradictory at some level. For such a guy, perhaps the thing to look for are activities that engender positive-energy-building-constructiveness, to replace the energy drain of things like work that must be done but don't build energy....

Here's a warm hand,

Chaim

=====

====

Re: Chooseurnames 90 day trip

Posted by ki sorisa - 08 Jan 2025 18:31

I think it's some funny combination of jealousy and "kol haposel b'mumo posul"

Been trying to think why I've been getting so annoyed. Definitely a lot of it has to do with not feeling good about myself with the recent relapse. That results in picking on others to vent. I think there's also an element of a fantastic idea I heard from Rabbi Tatz once that people instinctively try to make the outer world align with their inner world. So inner turmoil results in trying to pick fights for outer turmoil.

I think a part of it also has to do with being on edge from urges. Doesn't help that I've run out of one of my favorite self-soothing mechanisms (kosher dip) and my wife is resisting me restocking.

I also strongly suspect that I'm trying to push her away to give me space/freedom/justification to act out.

Armchair Freudian self-diagnoses aside. The point is that if I keep on feeling angry/resentful towards her I'll inevitably act out. There's no question at all about that.

Love your brutal honesty and self awareness, I very much relate to this.

=====

====

Re: Chooseurnames 90 day trip

Posted by redfaced - 09 Jan 2025 14:07

chosemyshem wrote on 03 Jan 2025 19:24:

Totally and completely unrelated. I've been seeing bumper stickers (from Oorah?) that say "Hashem Needs Every Yid". This is actual literal kefir. Hashem does not need every Yid. Hashem does not need anything. Just needed to get that off my chest.

And here is the Psak Halach from the Oorah Rav himself

matzav.com/rav-chaim-mintz-does-hashem-need-every-yid/

=====

Re: Chooseurnames 90 day trip
Posted by jollylemur95 - 09 Jan 2025 14:50

redfaced wrote on 09 Jan 2025 14:07:

chosemyshem wrote on 03 Jan 2025 19:24:

Totally and completely unrelated. I've been seeing bumper stickers (from Oorah?) that say "Hashem Needs Every Yid". This is actual literal kefir. Hashem does not need every Yid. Hashem does not need anything. Just needed to get that off my chest.

And here is the Psak Halach from the Oorah Rav himself

matzav.com/rav-chaim-mintz-does-hashem-need-every-yid/

There is a vort that is said in the name of the kedushas levi that when chazal say schar mitzvah, mitzvah it means that yesod. It is a mitzva to get schar because HKBH wants to be meitiv with us. Rav Chaim Voleziner in ruach chaim says the same yesod to explain the gemara sota that Moshe rabainu wanted to go in to eretz yisroel to do the mitzvos and get schar. He wanted to get schar because that is what Hashem wants. (there is more to say on the topic but I think that is enough for now)

That being said, Shem was saying (I think) that it sounds like he needs us for his own purposes. That is of course not true as he needs nothing. He has everything. It is us who need things and he wants to give us.

=====

Re: Chooseurnames 90 day trip
Posted by chosemyshem - 09 Jan 2025 15:06

redfaced wrote on 09 Jan 2025 14:07:

chosemyshem wrote on 03 Jan 2025 19:24:

Totally and completely unrelated. I've been seeing bumper stickers (from Oorah?) that say "Hashem Needs Every Yid". This is actual literal kefir. Hashem does not need every Yid. Hashem does not need anything. Just needed to get that off my chest.

And here is the Psak Halach from the Oorah Rav himself

matzav.com/rav-chaim-mintz-does-hashem-need-every-yid/

Thank you for posting that. I was actually tempted to reach out to Rabbi Mintz so you saved me some effort.

I like how he started off saying "needs mean wants". I don't want to waste more brain space on this, but I think his pshat is shlogged up by the song. The song asks "Why am I needed, there's so many others besides for me"?

Meaning the makshan is asking what is my unique purpose in life that can't be accomplished by someone else?

And the teretz is "Hashem needs every Yid". That is not saying Hashem's ratzon to be meitiv would be unfulfilled in any way if I didn't exist. It's poshut the song is saying that my purpose in life is to fulfill part of Hashem's plan in a unique way. And that is certainly hashkafically incorrect - each individual is not needed since Hashem's plan will be perfectly fulfilled regardless.

And you can get all fancy talking about "ein melech b'lo am" and whatever you want. But just saying Hashem needs every Yid definitely sounds like kefira.

=====

=====

Re: Chooseurnames 90 day trip

Posted by BenHashemBH - 09 Jan 2025 15:36

Why do I exist?

I would venture to say that Hashem has neither needs nor wants. He has a will. His will is that I should live. His will is that I should try my best to achieve the potential that he built into me and me alone. It's not about what someone else could do. As long as I'm here, the world cannot exist without me. G-d does not waste.

=====

=====

Re: Chooseurnames 90 day trip

Posted by thompson - 09 Jan 2025 15:48

chosemyshem wrote on 08 Jan 2025 16:33:

On top of that, my biggest area of struggle is at work. I can't exactly get busy golfing in my office (or whatever it is y'all fineshmekkers with healthy recreational activities do).

Perhaps the green circle is not a relevant tool for this aspect of the struggle. Perhaps also I'm being too nitpicky about what is a healthy activity or what activities I should invest my time in.

At the end of the day, pretty much anything would be a better use of time than porn or filter poking.

But it's relevant for a different struggle.

The struggle to close that darn pop-up that keep insisting upon itself.

=====

Re: Chooseurnames 90 day trip
Posted by rebakiva - 09 Jan 2025 17:31

BenHashemBH wrote on 09 Jan 2025 15:36:

Why do I exist?

I would venture to say that Hashem has neither needs nor wants. He has a will. His will is that I should live. His will is that I should try my best to achieve the potential that he built into me and me alone. It's not about what someone else could do. As long as I'm here, the world cannot exist without me. G-d does not waste.

Very well said;

Just to add, R' Zechariah Wallerstien Zatzal would always say, that if hashem would've decided that someone is not needed for one particular day {some times people tend to think that hashem may need them in general throught his life, but not every single day is his day...} then that guy wouldn't be put on pause for a day, or just sleep through the extra 24 hours, rather he would cease to exist, there would be a nice funeral and that's the end.

Because even sleeping through the day, must mean that hashem intended it to be that way, when Choiny Hamagel slept for 70 years, there was a need that hashem had for Choiny's sake to be sleeping all those years, not for hashem's sake just for Choiny's sake, because had there not been a need for the actual sleep, he wouldn't have been sleeping, he would've left this world altogether.

=====

=====

Re: Chooseurnames 90 day trip

Posted by jollylemur95 - 09 Jan 2025 17:44

I actually think we are all saying the same thing with different words:grinning:

=====

=====