Day 16

Going well. 2-3 week hurdle have to be extra vigilant. The urges come in fast and unexpected need to be ready for them.

Listen to today's ??????. Great perspective on changing how we view these challenges. Instead of looking at each urge and fight as a nisoyon look at it as an opportunity to do a ?????. Remember to check in at the end of a day, week or month and think about the number of successes you have accumulated for every urge that you fight off ( you have probably lost count over a 16 day period)!

Keep up the fight!!!

Wow you are so right. Need to constantly try to change my perspective not what I'm used to at all.

Day 17

Excited to go into shavous doing the right thing and working on this.

Day 4

I had a slip last night and it got me thinking, I had 60+ days clean and was doing so well what happened that now I'm back into this falling weekly and not motivated and feel like it's a drag.

I came to the realization (especially after @proudyougerman has been pushing me) that in the 60 days at that time I was speaking with someone from gye and being accountable and calling him. I was staying vigilant in staying away from triggers and I have written down what steps I need to take to not be in a danger zone, each day taking a commitment to stay away...

Recently I stopped messaging him I don't know exactly why, it's a couple reasons together. I guess also it's also hard for me to have phone calls no place of privacy here and I'm terrified of someone hearing that I'm on the phone to fix this (the thought of that terrifies me) and when I don't call it turns into a routine thing of texting each day, which makes it less meaningful.

I really believe that if I want to beat this I need to reach out and call but I really can't get myself to do it.

Maybe sounds like a lot of excuses for myself. But at least I know what steps I have to take I guess that's a positive.

Your doing great with the posting so keep that up. Dont think o much about the mess up - focus on the 60 days you have (note: HAVE not HAD) clean becuae they never go away and how many times did you say no in those 60 days? so its much more than then 60 wins.

Keep plowing and keep reaching out,
