

Nothing to lose

Nothing to lose by starting the 90 day challenge.

the challenges i see before me:

The sturggle to get off my devices.

staying positive and not falling into the trap of skipping steps.

finding ways to interact more with people in the real world.

I have struggled with this for many years I have tried different tools and I see what a differences it makes in my life when I am clean I might as well start.

I had a fall.

it was a combination of the stress the uncertainty of not knowing what to do about it. Then I got off early from work by like 3 hours

And was procrastinating and avoiding my troubles on my phone. Then I crossed a line and gave in. F***** S***.

First was outrage at myself over a F***** 3h off from work. Is that all it took.

but I cant be to hard on myself I made it a good distance again. Their was more I could have done their always is....

Definitely wasn't worth it.

degraded myself. I am not sure if I should celebrate that i made it to 18 1/2 days or not.

I didn't read TBOTG in a while.

I didn't do hisupodeduce in a while either or learn any of the other torah stuff that probably would helped me hold on.

Dude 18 and a half days is truly amazing. Do not focus on how easy the fall happened, focus on the over 2 weeks of kedusha you built.

Seeing you fight, I have no doubt you can dust yourself off and carry on with a clean week till pesach.

Bein hazmanim is tough, and it sounds like you prepared yourself properly and are dealing with it quite well.

I agree you should celebrate that got 18 days! Me personally I get more motivation to take the right actions from people who are clean for a little time than the people with so much time, since I could relate more, so thanks for being an inspiration for me! Keep up the good work!!

I again had some more AVE this morning but I didn't give in.

I found this recording on lionfree's 90day challenge applicable and helpful to me. <http://guardyoureyes.com/GYEFiles /MP3s/Dov/Dov%20to%20Bochur %20News-story.mp3>
