

Nothing to lose

Posted by notezy - 24 Jan 2024 15:01

Nothing to lose by starting the 90 day challenge.

the challenges i see before me:

The sturggle to get off my devices.

staying positive and not falling into the trap of skipping steps.

finding ways to interact more with people in the real world.

I have struggled with this for many years I have tried different tools and I see what a differences it makes in my life when I am clean I might as well start.

Hi @notezy, you're awesome, staying connected to here, on top of the situation for yourself, sharing.

Sorry if I missed your explanation earlier, but when you have falls, is that with p..n? If yes, do you have access to unfiltered, or poorly filtered internet? If yes, what can you do about blocking that?

About therapy, I also used to think - what can a therapist help? But it is wrong. These are ppl who work all day to figure out how and why we act, and learn tools to help. Therapy can help tons!! And if you are missing some of the drive or motivation, that should be addressed in therapy.

Do you know your options for therapy?

@notezy, I can relate to your continued "falling." It is a vicious cycle that is hard to break. Do you see any recurring events leading to the falls? Is it a certain time or day or a certain situation (like walking the streets with underdressed women) that triggers you? Also, how available are unfiltered devices? I am thinking about things that led to my many falls. I have learned that nothing is unpenetrable, but the more friction you can put between yourself and the urge, the better. Those few moments that I had to wrestle with getting past a filter have saved me numerous times.

Anything that you can do that can give you an advantage in this battle is well worth the effort.

Coming on here is a HUGE step and please keep coming

I would say women on the street can be an issue sometimes but generally it's to do with self worth, sometimes it's just strong urges nothing more or maybe I haven't identified where those strong urges come from I'll say the strong urges come after longer clean streaks.. and sometimes just in the morning when I wake up which I assume comes from thinking about things unintentionally the night before... speaking of filters I have web chaver on both devices and I use "Lock me out" as a parental locking control for my phone and Microsoft family safety as a parental controls for my computer. Genrally very locked down.

therapy is a tremendous brocho and resource our generation was zoche to. if you're determined to put in the work, it can (w hashem's help) bring you from a horse and buggy to a sports car.

also, nowadays there are really good options that except insurance essentially making the help you'll get free.

somewhere on this site there are links to referral agencies who can show you your options and guide you to the right shliach. (one such option is relief)

Went to Jerusalem today for a meeting. Stopped by the kotel to pray for everyone again....

I gaurded my eyes on the street as much as i could there but still have urges as i am arriving home. So I guess it's time to fight for it going to try to go help my rabbi with something to keep busy.
