

Nothing to lose

Posted by notezy - 24 Jan 2024 15:01

Nothing to lose by starting the 90 day challenge.

the challenges i see before me:

The sturggle to get off my devices.

staying positive and not falling into the trap of skipping steps.

finding ways to interact more with people in the real world.

I have struggled with this for many years I have tried different tools and I see what a differences it makes in my life when I am clean I might as well start.

I am scared by the fact that the only times I have seemed to have found success is when I take on something new and that freshness gives me hope and lasts for about a 20-30 day period before it gives way and I am back to struggling again and I worry that's happening here.

Your username says it all. This is not easy. I have been struggling with pornography and masturbation for 20 years.

You started off this thread with:

What difference does it make in your life when you are clean? Why do you want to be clean? Whatever it is, it sounds like it was worth it to you to try and join GYE. Please don't despair just because it is hard. It is hard, but not impossible.

Alright, I was extremely down and then angry at myself today over this but I am continuing.

I am going to change some things I have been putting off since I got this new phone a month ago which is to have my rabbi control the screen time app with a password.

Day 1

I ran into an issue with the password thing but should have it worked out by tomorrow.
