

Win!

I had an amazing test tonight. I was in the mood to go on a walk on a public street and look around. I stopped myself by reminding myself that its so stupid and not worth it. especially tonight after making a siyum on masechet Eruvin. As i turned around I literally saw a girl in a bathing suit top across the street. I DID NOT take a second look. it was so hard but really like i said its so stupid. I wont get anything out of it . she is just a person, her own streesors and things going on. she isnt interested in me and im not interested in her. A quick look means nothing. And i walked away praying to hashem.

Gadlus!!! Being able to not take that tempting second look is one of the hardest things to do. It means giving up on the curiosity, which is the root of much of the struggle ??? ??? ??????!!!
