Thank you all for the great chizuk. now that i completed 90 days it is important to find another motivator. R guard as the group of over 90's is growing it would be great if you could come up with another milestone of some sorts to keep us hanging on tight, just a recommendation.

Here are some short-term motivators:

100 days (triple digit!) & 120 days (Meah v'Esrim) - they're both within sight!!

Also, by the time you hit 120, it will be almost Elul. Your next motivator can be to come in clean to the Yomim Noraim. But, one thing at a time.

The yamim noroim are a great motivator, but I feel that the next few weeks are tricky summer vacation etc. we need to all hang on tight together.

90 Days on the Wall of Honor is Level 7. The next Level is at HALF A YEAR - LEVEL 8!! Then Level 9 at a YEAR. And Level 10 is already "off the charts"..

I chose a perfect picture for you... Of a holy Jew alone with Hashem in the forest meditating and praying.

mgsbms - remember, no matter how many people are in the room, no matter what desires are swirling around you, it's just YOU AND HASHEM.

Dearest MGSBMS,

You reached 90 day. You passed 90 days. You did so much avodah kdosha and you deserve every single one of those mazal tov that you were wished plus many many more. We can't even fully give you what you deserve, but the One up above, He knows...

Do you know what brought on this series of falls? Maybe you can look at it as, "Hey, there's clearly more work to be done, let's get at it!"

I think I can speak for everyone here, we love you and are here for you. Stay with this and let's walk through this together. You are GREAT!!

Thanks "struggle" for your thoughts, I really don't understand what happened it just came over me and I felt it creeping up as I wrote before. Anyways I hope I could pull myself together and start again with the help of hakb"h and the help of GYE.

mgsbms, tell us about the fall. What precipitated it? What gedarim are now needed? What did you learn about yourself?

Was it the "YH of milestones"? I have an idea, GIVE UP on maintaining a streak. DON'T STRUGGLE to persevere. Just think about the next 10 minutes, or at most, TODAY. Life is what happens here and now, this very second. You have no control over ANYTHING ELSE.

One of the wisest members on the forum, Dov, recently said (paraphrasing here) that HE CANNOT stay clean for 90 days or even 10. Yet he has been clean for 11.5 years. How? By focusing on today.
