

ClearEyes

Posted by cleareyes613@gmail.com - 05 Feb 2010 03:15

Day 200 - Wow. My dream is becoming my reality. Thank you Hashem for last 6292 times You saved me from my urges. Next stop, 201. Never again, one day at a time.

=====
=====

Re: ClearEyes

Posted by Tev - 01 Apr 2010 20:31

Happy B-day wife! Your husband is a Tzadik!!!

=====
=====

Re: ClearEyes

Posted by jewinpain - 02 Apr 2010 03:06

A good moed, harav clear eyes, u must be very happy this yom tov after kicking the YH out the door now for over 8 months, and I'm sure life improved in all areas due to that, may hashem give u the strength to continue beating him and helping all of us here on the forum, to send the YH back to the goyium

=====
=====

Re: ClearEyes

Posted by cleareyes613@gmail.com - 02 Apr 2010 16:25

I'm happy with being clean. Still I need to remind myself daily of this and of my realization that by my lonesome I was never going to stop no matter how hard I tried.

I didn't do no kicking. The yh still exists in me. I'm not that strong. The best I can do with the help of Hashem is to not let lust in as much as possible.

No more falls, one day at a time.

=====
=====

Re: ClearEyes

Posted by cleareyes613@gmail.com - 07 Apr 2010 23:43

Looks like most of nyc forgot to get dressed today. Scary what the summer will bring. Thank you Hashem for the gift of glasses. And thank You for allowing me today to not see what others were or are perhaps werent wearing.

It's not my problem they forgot their clothes at home!

May I continue to not notice my surroundings.

=====
=====

Re: ClearEyes

Posted by Yosef Hatzadik - 07 Apr 2010 23:56

When I read comments like these I begin to feel a little upset that I, B"H, don't need glasses! 8)

=====
=====