Boruch Hashem, I'm up to 25 days.

Bardichev, believe it or not, I was too busy yesterday to write any posts! But thanks for thinking

By the way, my daughter graduated from high school this week. I was delighted to be sober/clean and, thus, able to shep Nachas from the event! One of the Rabbanim who spoke stated very clearly that the Internet is THE challenge of our generation, much as Shmiras Shabbos was THE Nisayon two generations ago. He urged the young ladies to make sure that their future homes are protected.

Kedusha, mazal tov on your daughter's HS graduation!!!

I noticed with my own children that I appreciate all their sweetness and accomplishments much more now when I'm not in the "Itaavuh yvakesh nifrad" mode!!

I enjoy my blessing much more now, without the heavy weight of guilt, without the burden of all the deceit that was part and parcel of my day to day (former) existence.

Rooting 4 U

Your new friend and fellow strugler.

Bardichev's words really resonated with me. The concern that I would take my sins to my grave was what really got me going. It is true that it is never to late to change and it is also true that it is OK if I fight the YH till the day I die. That will actually be the biggest Zechus. We are not fighting the YH as a process to get through in order to be able to get back to normal life; the fight wih the YH is the essence of our existence and that is what will stand before the Kisay Hakavod on the Yom Hadin Hagadol. I hope that my place will be close to the Tzaddikim who inspire us with there battle with the YH on this site.

Thank you Hoping for the great insight. I am gratified that it made its debut on my post. What an honor!

Bardichev - I'm not sure where I disclosed my age. It's not in my profile. Not that it's a big deal. I guess you mean that, if my daughter graduated from high school, I'm probably over 40 (which is true).

Boruch Hashem, I am up to 28 days.
