

Tatti, Tatti, please, just for today

Posted by 1daat - 30 Jun 2010 03:35

"hi; I moved here from the Introduce Yourself thread cause I'm already introduced."

--Briuit's suggestion for starting my new thread.

Anyway, here I am, day 31. Fast is over in 12 minutes. But who's counting. I've been on GYE for a couple hours. More than is probably ok for me, but when I need it I need it.

Making some real friendships, no secrets, just chizuk, love and reminders that when all is said and done, we are left with hishtadlus and bitachon.

It's relatively quiet on the yh (no caps. I wouldn't give it the kovod, malach or not) front. Thank you all for reminding me not to be caught off guard, lulled into some sense of "having won" the battle. Please, keep reminding me!

ok for tonight. Maariv and eatz.

Chazak Chazak chevra.

Besides another IRS audit (I'm kosher and they keep at it. Third one. they always find some little shtickle for a few hundred that I don't have), besides parnasa, my ex- (daughter's mother) in her last days, besides the mri that shows my spinal column looks like a train wreck, besides, besides, besides, these things B'H get handled day by day.

BUT my smileys. Help, please, my smileys. I daven for smileys that work, and I get nothing. I need my smileys. It's like I'll lose my most favoritest thing in the whole world, next to lusting in a dark room. won't somebody rescue me.

Dov and Zem, you couldn't spare a little help?

As to ogsterizers, I put mine away last week. It's a really big one, too.

do you have hebrew keyboard installed? sometimes you can inadvertently invoke Hebrew and the parenthesis character ends up backwards producing a frowney rather than a smiley.

Gevura ShebYesod was the only local with a little rachmones. Thank you Gevura. At last.
Such a relief.Nice brocho, Zem

Thanks for the fix, Dov.

Do you want to know what a nutcase is? My Zeideh ran a general store in yehupitz in Canada.

He would trade with the Native Americans, and they would bring all kinds of nuts (and berries) to barter with. So he had to put them someplace. Never mind.

Mood swings

:D ;D > :o 8) ??? : :-[:-X :-\ :-* :'(

ps Thanks again Gevurah

Waiting for Shabbos Mayriv I ask the Rav some questions about harkachot during a meal, and about stringencies related to talking to women. Lots of the things that have been going around the site lately. So next day at Kiddush one of the young regulars walks in and introduces her mother who is visiting from Switzerland. Several folks near me engage her in conversation and she's talking about how hard it is to be frum in Switzerland, etc. I'm trying to be friendly and yet maintain some reserve like the Rav had spoken to me about before Maariv. I ask a question here and there to be social. Soon everybody leaves one by one and she and I are left in discussion. I knew I was probably doing something I shouldn't be doing because the more we talked the more focused we became on each other. I know I'm getting interested in her. For once not sexually. Though I am attracted to her. She's just a nice person. I don't know what to do with myself especially after the Rav's talk with me the night before. I politely and cheerily said my "Good Shabboses" and duck out.

As I'm walking home I think to myself that I ought to talk to the Rebbetzen and tell her to get me one of those. Too bad about Switzerland.

Shabbos by day: The Rav actually walks to my house and says He'd like to talk to me about something. He says, "Was there maybe some interest in the lady you were talking to?" I kind of burst out a little and reply, "about two hundred percent" He tells me that she told her daughter who told the Rebbetzin who told the Rav who told me that the lady had expressed an interest about me.

Well it turns out this was one big setup, and everybody was in on it except me. The daughter thought I and her mother should meet. Daughter goes to Rebetzin and talks about how to make it happen without putting me or her in an awkward position. It was decided by committee that we would "just happen to meet" at Shul and everybody would see how I behaved and whether I got the thumbs up afterwards.

When they told me all I could think of was how blessed I was to be surrounded with people who care about me so much to want to make a shidduch at all, let alone setting it up so nobody gets hurt.

i start up with the "new relationship fantasies" and pretty quickly realize I'm davening to her during Mincha. Time for a talk. I ask for help. He says this is an opportunity for me to love someone unselfishly, and to bring Kedusha to a relationship, ANY relationship, business, social, the grocery store clerk. ANY relationship. It doesn't matter how this relationship goes. What matters is whether I'm going to, for once in my life, think about the other person first. It's a gift from Hashem to teach me how to care about another person. Hamelech ya'anenu b'yom kareinu.

I ask the Rav, "But she lives in Switzerland". He says, "She's willing to move. Her daughter is here with the grandchildren and she has nothing keeping her in Switzerland."

I asked her to dinner, it was brief, we had a couple of good laughs.

I could use some guidance here. Halachically, and addiction wise.

Wow, wow, wow. All I can say is that I read this thread and its proof that there is a God in heaven, and how good life is when we live our lives with Him. I wish I can give you some guidance although not really sure what you are looking for exactly. Is the Rov aware of all your issues. If he is, can't you ask him?

day 41. For once I don't leap to the shmutz to drain off the anxious feeling. I went back and figured out a workaround with the software. But this is a big deal for me. I didn't fall when I was triggered by the whole gallery in my head yelling drek at me about my intelligence and adequacy.

I must comment here - i did not know that others used this p* and m*as a salve to anxious feelings. When i have a bad time in my work - or a negative economic thing occurs to me - it has been the first thing that i turn to. I suppose that i need to prepare for that - i am newly clean. I am enjoying my freedom - it has been refreshing -
