Have been on the site for almost two months and I stayed clean for 43 days and then fell. I'm having a hard time starting the climb again so I decided to start writing.

Day 3.

Grrr.... just fell. I was hoping for a perfectly clean Kislev but I blew it :o. I hope to stay clean for the rest of Kislev. I'll just move on and won't look back for the time being...

Kedusha, I definitely hear you but I think that it would be too much to give up right now. I will install k9 now as I don't have the discipline yet.

Hey JIP,

Thanks for the encouragement. I installed the K9 software but it is limiting so I may need to disturb the password gabbai and make some changes. Other than that, things are good 8).

Hey,

I made some minor changes to my K9 settings because it was blocking legitimate pages. It's currently working like a charm. I know that this will not stop me but it will give me time to call out for help from a partner/sponsor. I will try the TaPhSiC Method <http://www.guardyoureyes.org/?p=2451> and will see if it works. I'm debating between fasting or paying a sum of money if I fall...

I hope this will work!!!

P.S JIP and Bardichev, thanks for dropping by...

Fasting is very dangerous for an addict.

The white books describes hunger as a lust trigger. When a person is hungry he goes looking for other things. There are addicts that based on a ravs psak dont fast except tb yom kipur.

Funny but I never felt that there was a positive correlation between fasting and lust but I'll take your word for it and will start with a knas for this week. I generally feel like I'm on track again ;D.

Thanks.

If I don't keep my blood sugar in limits, I could get [thoughtless] enough to do almost anything. And no, I'm not diabetic or anything. I'm just sensitive to knowing when my body is craving 'something' and not always aware that the craving could & should be satisfied with FOOD.

Yea, I know people that have a hard time with fasting or skipping a meal but I can eat non stop or starve/skip a meal or two and it doesn't really bother me. I know someone like you (that is very sensitive to blood sugar) and he went on the Glycemic Index diet and it did him wonders.

Hey,

I had a very easy shabbos (barely any nisyonot) 8). I started reading The Garden of Emunah (I read 1/3 of the book). I'm having a hard time accepting alot of the stuff there but things may become more clear as I progress with the book (will continue reading next shabbos). Looking forward to start a new week. Oh, I also got a new partner (we spoke on the phone) and I'm very happy about that. Things are looking good bh.

Hope you all have a gut voch!!
