Good news - Lots of progress B"H
Posted by the.guard - 01 Jul 2011 15:47

After 5 trips abroad in the span of the past year, we decided it is time to really get down to work... Although I may not have time to be on the forum very often these days, me, my partner, and our other helpers are B"H working full speed ahead. See this locked thread for our weekly updates.

Please use this thread for your feedback, which we'd love to hear!

This is gevaldig.

Thank you R' Guard.

btw, I thought the current site was PRETTY PROFESSIONAL in its own right.

As far as being patient goes.... that's not exactly my strong point you know.

We actually announced the new version of the handbook (with 20 tools instead of 18, etc...) in Chizuk e-mail #1044 about 20 days ago. But today I finished polishing up and fixing some things. I hope it won't need any more fixes....

Wow sounds as a great website. Very user friendly, great layout, couple of totally new ideas I see there as well,

I could not thank you enough..... so I want start

Just one negative thing I'll add

I'm iy"h never going to use the new website..... I wont have a reason to visit it "I JUST BROKE MY OWN RECORD IM 42 DAYS ROCK SOLID CLEAN" I dont know about you all, but for me, that's a major major major milestone

So yes hopefully I shouldn't need the new website anymore

Guard: just one word THANK YOU. Well, i said I'm not going to thank. However, I hope you could see my heart my life behind those 2 words. than you might understand the real definition of it.

A little off topic. Sorry, I just couldnt resist to thank you with a word (hey 2 words
