

Guys, I need a big favor

Posted by the.guard - 22 Sep 2010 08:28

Due to our fundraising efforts over the past six months, and the fact that we are finally working on a serious overhaul of our entire network to make everything much more professional, simple to use and cutting edge (we're working with a web developing team in LA), etc, I have been unable to spend time on the forum like I used to.

One of the problems with this is, that I used to get all the great material for the chizuk e-mails from the amazing posts of chizuk and inspiration that our users share on the forum. Since I no longer have time to spend on the forum, I am having a hard time lately getting material together for the chizuk e-mails. So I would like to ask a big favor from everyone. Whenever you see a post that you found inspiring, that gave you a new insight into this struggle, a new perspective, a new practical tip, a new Torah thought, etc.. PLEASE send it to me at eyes.guard@gmail.com...
(. If you want to edit it and make it more readable, that would be fine. If not, I'll do it myself. But I really need the GYE communities' help with this.

Thank you, and wishing everyone a very happy and clean Yom Tov!

Since you personally stopped posting the forum hasn't been the same.

Maybe you can come back and add to the vitality of the forum.

(And I'm not talking just about your OWN posts
(There has been loads of great stuff on the forum, just very little of it seemed to be the style you are looking for. Except for DOV, but you check all of his posts anyways.)

Sorry, Rabbeinu.....just a gut-spilling moment. (yech)

I wish I could spend more time here, but my partner works me like a horse...

For example, we had a 2 hour meeting today with the head of Jnet (who is in Israel till tomorrow), a big Rosh Yeshiva and Roshei Kollelim who are looking to bring filter solutions to the American community here in Eretz Yisrael. Then we got back to the office and followed up with some donors on their commitments, then we spoke to 3 web developing teams in the U.S and Israel to try and find the right UX/UI guys for our website design, then we wrote up a page of all our web-site elements for these guys to review, then my partner went back home while I continued working... I spoke to a guy in Canada who wants to try fund-raising for us and guided him through our presentation, I spoke to a designer in my community who may be the perfect guy for the web-job we need, and I spent two hours on the chizuk e-mails.

It's 12 AM now and my wife is complaining that I don't spend any time helping her in the house... AAARGGG. And you guys want me to spend my day on the forum like in the "good ol days!?" ;D

Oh, and tomorrow we have a meeting at 9:30 AM in my office, and another meeting at 1 PM in Bet Shemesh....

See Rabbi Sher book. He was offered to be Rabbi of the White Shul in Lorwance, one of the most prominent Shuls in the USA, and Rav Aharon Kotler told him he is staying where he is at the head of the Aguda.

I think Guard is helping many more people by being busy with this stuff on a communal scale. As far as I know none else is so deeply involved. It is "ei efshar lasous al viday acheirim"

Keep it up.

I dono what zchus u got or what good deeds u did prior to forming this community, cuz in my lifetime I don't know anyone else who did such a gr8 thing for hashem,

Now a call to all addicts here, all of the above is good for the fun, but harav reb guard really needs out help, let it be welcoming the newcomers, which got better recently, or by finding some wealthy people who can open their hearts & pockets to fund the building & maintaining this "mikdosh maat" & of course by composing the chizak emails, which is what this thread was actually opened for (any1 still remembers?? We have gone too far off topic)

Ya, who am I talk, what do I do to help him, but u know what chazal say "gudal hmasas...."

Thanks for all the love and support everyone. I'm going to have to agree with Holy Yid. I really have no choice... But besides for helping many thousands of more people through our work (off-forum), you guys will also be benefiting shortly. Just hold out another 6 months or so and you'll all be the beneficiaries of a much more professional network, i.e. website/forums/chat-rooms/ many new features, such as new hotlines for guidance all day, and new filter services. The fund raising and web development that we are doing is not just so we can reach more people, it's for YOU.

Guard,

Are you asking us to delay instant gratification :o for long term benefit?

That's a hard one.

Every since posting this, I've just been inundated with e-mails. I can't keep up. Please stop!!

Not.

I haven't received even ONE suggestion yet by e-mail for a post.

Is anyone on this forum anymore?

(And I'm not talking just about your OWN posts

Hello?? (hello, hello, hello... echo....)

Oh well, the forum was a nice idea.

Now, that you do have a special someone sending them, why don't you post a thank you?
