Heart Frozen Solid, Thawed Once More By The Spring Of Rage, Despair, And Hopelessness by David

Hi, I'm David and I am powerless over lust. I have been going to SA meetings for about 2 months or so. I have never really tried "working the steps" before.

I have struggled with this problem for a very long time. There were times when I tried to stop and other times when I felt resigned to continue acting out forever. As a result, I would see periods of sobriety, sometimes lasting a few months, only to be reduced to the same behaviors eventually.

When I get into a rut I tend to get numb to the whole situation and to life itself. I medicate with liberal applications of porn and lust until I've become completely frozen, like the February ground in Reno.

At some point, I don't exactly know what it is, I convince myself to try again. It is usually the total rage, despair and hopelessness that creeps through despite my best efforts to numb it with more porn. Well, here I am now. I saw that this group was starting up in a chizzuk email and decided i should try my hand. I look forward to recovery but am scared of the steps.

Pray for my soul and I will pray for yours.

Why don't you just try something like "hi g-d its me your son david I as you know I really need help. So please show me the way. I can't take this addiction anymore so help me out because one thing I do know I can't do it myself. Thanks". You can say this while your laying in bed or standing on your head. It really doesn't matter.

I think you've got to turn your 'dog' around.....kitschy....kitschy....

I know a guy (OK, it's Harvey, if you just have to know everything!) (what is the matter with you?!)...where was I? Oh, yeah...Harvey used to tell guys who didn't even believe in a G-d to just talk to Him, anyway, as an exercise in asking for help. Maybe it's weird, but he's pretty smart (sometimes) and if he suggests it, it might have some merit. Maybe that tack would actually work for you - for as far as I am concerned, of what use is a G-d that you cannot talk to at all? Hell, a non-english-speaking hooker is still useful!....(Ooops. I shouldn't have said that.) So, let's say He doesn't speak my language (which I call: 'Upper-Caveman Philistine'). So? Reb Levi-Yitzchak (bards' grandpappy) was definitely right: a mom hears her baby. She hears it. And she knows what it really means. Get me? (I hope so, cuz I'm not really sure I do)... ???

Hey David, I noticed you've changed your screen name from The Never Believer. Does that mean you've started to believe? Also are you the famous rage whose posts seemed to have all disappeared? What's up with that? Glad to see things are starting to turn around.

Welcome back!

And where do you dig up these picture-thingies? They all seem like they are from a daVinci-Code satanic website or something.

I think it's pretty safe to say "we miss you, Rage!"

Are you "David" out on the rest of the forum, too, now?

David, your posts seem to magically disappear with your name changes. But a couple of weeks ago you had one on your difficulty with tefillah. That Shabbos I came accross the following from Reb Hirsch on the possuk ?????? ??????. I've been meaning to post it but never had the chance to type it up. Now that your back, I finally pushed myself to do it:

From the root ??? (to judge), related to ??? as we have already seen in the account of the ??? ?????, the ????? does not mix materials together; rather he introduces a foreign element into a substance and integrates some of the new into every particle of the old, thus creating a new substance. According to the Jewish conception this is the task of the judge. Lies and injustice cause division, create conflict and dispute. A judge introduces justice, the Divine truth of things, into the disputed matter creating harmonious unity where lies and injustice had caused conflict and division.

????? means: to perform this task (???) upon oneself, to infuse every aspect of one's being and existence with God's truth, and thus attain for oneself harmonious integrity of all of life by the light of God's Countenance.

Jewish tefillah, then, is antiethcial to the common conception of "prayer" Tefilah is not an outpouring from within, an expression of the heart already feels – for that we have other terms: ???? ??? and the like. Rather, tefillah means infusing the heart with truths that come from outside oneself.

Tefilah is ?????? ?????; Mispallel means to work on refinishing one's inner self, to elevate one's mind and heart to the lofty heights of recognition of truth and desire for serving God.

If this were not the case, if Tefillah were but an outpouring of our emotions, it would make no sense to have fixed times and fixed texts for our prayers. How could assume that all the members of the community would be imbued with the same thoughts and the same emotions at predetermined times?

Moreover, prayer that is merely an expression of feeling is superfluous. Thoughts and emotions that are already alive within us do not require expression, least of all expression in set phrases formulated by others that ourselves. Deep inner experience always finds its own way of self-expression; and when the inner experience is exceedingly grand and profound, it is beyond all expression, and the most appropriate expression is silence.

It follows, then, that the whole purpose of our fixed prayers is to awaken the heart and to revive within it those timeless values that still require reinforcement and special care. One can truly say that the less we feel in the mood of prayer, the greater is our need to pray, the greater is the redeeming power and sublime value of the work upon ourselves hat we perform through Tefillah. The absence of the mood for prayer is in itself the surest sign of the obscurement and dimming of that spirit that is not the basis for Tefillah but its goal and exalted purpose.
